

A bright future or a radiated future?

The world and humanity are in a process of transformation.

This includes the fact that the confrontations between the building and the destructive forces increase. This has been predicted for thousands of years and is found in the Bible at in several places, in both wills. Of course, the light will win, but it will last some years and it's a hard time.

Those who are fully focused on the matter will have it easier for a start, whereas the sensitive or sensitive will experience suffering and have to endure it. An important example of this is technical electrosmog. In spite of many scientific evidence of how dangerous this method of communication can be using non-ionizing radiations it will be driven further and further forward.

15 years ago, I myself gave lectures and had discussions against new mobile masts and many of them could be prevented. Today, however, such attempts to influence the awareness of the population are forgotten. Nobody cares anymore. The decisions have been made...

More than 100 years ago, a number of technical mistakes were made, including that we suffer so much today, for example:

- Tesla versus Hertz and Edison, who won. From this our today's Technologies related to electrics, electronics, energy transfer and communications. All of them have considerable side effects on humans. If Tesla would have promoted from the banker Morgan, things would look a lot better today.

- Siemens versus diesel engine / petrol engine / petrol car, which won. The result was the the single-sided triumph of the combustion engine, whereas the electric motor, the Siemens with his dynamo, is only gaining importance again today. The World domination of oil with all its could have been avoided.

- Dechamps and Pasteur versus Virchow and Koch, who won. It was the fight of the milieu theory against that of the one-sided pathogen theory, which leads to antibiotic misuse and the need for vaccination. There is much evidence that pathogens cannot harm us, if the environment in the body is good, remained unnoticed.

- Free energy production - again Tesla - versus obsolete techniques (wind turbines, water heating by the sun, etc.), which assert themselves. This, in addition to combustion of valuable hydrocarbons. Huge areas of land are planted with rapeseed for biodiesel. instead of promoting decentralised energy producers in the basement of energy-saving houses.

- Natural soil management versus eutrophication and herbicides, which are included, to prevail.

- Natural variety breeding versus genetic manipulation, which is enforced by force.

In each of these cases there were interest groups that set the course in the wrong direction. With what aim? Probably to bring humanity into dependencies, to exploit and control them. Let us once again pick out the electrosmog, which is the strongest negative development: We are at the transition from 4G to 5G in mobile communications. What does that mean? There will be a completely different World, the transmission rates of radio transmitters will increase a hundredfold compared to 2016. And it will be a million-fold increase compared to the good old time of 1980. There will be no beams and on the mobile phone it will also be visible in the last remote valley on the highest level. We will even be able to download a Hollywood movie on the mountain within 1-2 minutes.

The water and electricity meters in the cellars will communicate constantly with a central station, similar to refrigerators. Self-propelled cars require high-performance technology everywhere, so there won't be any accidents. More and more people will be using RFID`s (Miniature-Microchips) which have all the individual data stored, and with which you can make all the business done. Cash will be banned. Who rejects the RFID`s, becomes from the economic life excluded.

The currently approx. 10-20% electrosmog sensitivities will become 80-90%. This will result in new diseases, known civilisation diseases will affect almost everyone. Our blood will constantly be in the money roll mode, from which circulatory disturbances up to infarcts can arise.

Smoldering inflammations, particularly in the brain (silent inflammations), become the common findings, coupled with autoaggression. Every elderly person receives the same Treatments: Blood thinner, blood pressure reducer, cholesterol reducer, gastric acid blocker...

As said before, the destructive forces on earth have prevailed, the politicians follow the without resistance, the population is mostly in lethargy, at this Developments today and in the years to come can hardly be changed. Nevertheless, followers of natural life and natural healing methods should not stick their heads in the sand. Enlightenment is necessary.

And self-protection is very important, by wearing small devices on our bodies, which do not reduce Hertz's waves and the SAR values of mobile phones (which is of little use), but rather reduces the biological compatibility of e-smog.

DNA damage are significantly different. This means that we can protect us, and we should seize this opportunity. For most people, the future will be a radiated, for those who think and follow the logic or the feeling, it will be a radiant one.
